PRESS RELEASE

Beranda Migran Accompanies Families of Fire Victims in Tai Po, Hong Kong

Strengthening Victim Rights Education and Preventing Fraud Post-Tragedy!

Beranda Migran expresses deep condolences for the tragic fire at Wang Fung Court, Tai Po, Hong Kong, on Wednesday, November 26, 2025. This tragedy claimed the lives of 9 Indonesian Migrant Workers (IMW) and left profound sorrow for the families of the victims. In addition to losing loved ones, this tragedy has also created new vulnerabilities for the families left behind in Indonesia, particularly the risks of fraud, loss of rights, and misuse of information. Beranda Migran hopes that the victims find the best resting place and that the families left behind are given strength and resilience to face this time of mourning.

In response to the situation, Beranda Migran immediately took steps to establish direct communication with the families of the victims. From the beginning, Beranda Migran has prioritized the protection of IMW rights and the prevention of irresponsible practices that often target the families of victims as the main focus of its support.

From December 3 to 6, 2025, the Beranda Migran team, supported by KOPPMI and other supporting networks, visited the houses of nine victim families directly. The visits were conducted in various regions where the victims originated, including Blitar, Malang, Kediri, Ponorogo, Cilacap, Semarang, Indramayu, and Grobogan.

During these meetings, Beranda Migran carried out initial data collection while also providing “Know Your Rights” education to the families of the victims. This educational initiative aims to ensure that families fully understand the rights of the victims, the legitimate compensation and assistance mechanisms, and to recognize potential fraud schemes that often arise after a tragedy, especially when families are in a state of mourning and psychologically vulnerable.

In addition to educational support, Beranda Migran also gave condolence funds collected from IMWs in Hong Kong to the families of the victims. The distribution was carried out directly and transparently as a form of solidarity from the IMW community and as moral support for the families left behind.

Through these visits, Beranda Migran also established important contacts with the families of the victims to maintain long-term communication channels. This is intended to facilitate advocacy efforts, ongoing support, and prompt responses should the families require administrative, legal assistance, or other forms of support in the future.

Beranda Migran reaffirms its commitment to continue standing by the families of the victims, not only during the initial mourning period but also in ensuring justice, protection of rights, and the dignity of IMWs remain fully safeguarded. The Tai Po fire tragedy serves as a reminder that the protection of migrant workers does not end in the host country, but also includes psychological support, information, and legal assistance for the IMW families left behind in their hometowns.
